Cozy European Hideaway: Alavya, Turkey

It's easy to see why Istanbul's beautiful people are heading to Alavya, in Turkey's summer playground of Alaçati. Located on the main drag of this coastal village, the 25-room retreat is in the heart of the action while managing to feel blissfully removed: each of the 25 rooms, housed in six stone mansions surrounding a shaded pool, is designed individually with contemporary regional art and handmade furnishings, and all feature stonework fireplaces and private patios. Don't miss Mitu, a café-bar-bistro that also sells the eclectic clothing and accessories line of Turkish fashion editor Fatos Yalin. alavya.com.tr. $$$
